Goals of Interpersonal Effectiveness

BE SKILLFUL IN GETTING WHAT YOU WANT AND NEED FROM OTHERS

Get others to do things you would like them to do.
Get others to take your opinions seriously.
Say no to unwanted requests effectively.
Other:
BUILD RELATIONSHIPS AND END DESTRUCTIVE ONES
Strengthen current relationships. □ Don't let hurts and problems build up. □ Use relationship skills to head off problems. □ Repair relationships when needed. □ Resolve conflicts before they get overwhelming.
Find and build new relationships.
End hopeless relationships.
Other:
WALK THE MIDDLE PATH
Create and maintain balance in relationships.
Balance acceptance and change in relationships.
Other:

Factors in the Way of Interpersonal Effectiveness

☐ YOU DON'T HAVE THE INTERPERSONAL SKILLS YOU NEED
YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT YOU WANT
☐ You have the skills, but can't decide what you really want from the other person.
☐ You can't figure out how to balance your needs versus the other person's needs:
☐ Asking for too much versus not asking for anything.
☐ Saying no to everything versus giving in to everything.
YOUR EMOTIONS ARE GETTING IN THE WAY
☐ You have the skills, but emotions (anger, pride, contempt, fear, shame, guilt) control what you do.
YOU FORGET YOUR LONG-TERM GOALS FOR SHORT-TERM GOALS
☐ You put your immediate urges and wants ahead of your long-term goals. The future vanishes from your mind.
OTHER PEOPLE ARE GETTING IN YOUR WAY
You have the skills but other people get in the way.
☐ Other people are more powerful than you.
☐ Other people may be threatened or may not like you if you get what you want.
Other people may not do what you want unless you sacrifice your self-respect, at least a little.
YOUR THOUGHTS AND BELIEFS ARE GETTING IN THE WAY
□ Worries about negative consequences if you ask for what you want or say no to someone's request get in the way of acting effectively.
☐ Beliefs that you don't deserve what you want stop you in your tracks.
☐ Beliefs that others don't deserve what they want make you ineffective.

Myths in the Way of Interpersonal Effectiveness

Myths in the Way of Objectives Effectiveness

	1.	I don't deserve to get what I want or need.
	2.	If I make a request, this will show that I am a very weak person.
☐ 3. I have to know whether a person is going to say yes before I make a request.		I have to know whether a person is going to say yes before I make a request.
☐ 4. If I ask for something or say no, I can't stand it if someone gets upset with me.		If I ask for something or say no, I can't stand it if someone gets upset with me.
	5.	If they say no, it will kill me.
	6.	Making requests is a really pushy (bad, self-centered, selfish, etc.) thing to do.
	7.	Saying no to a request is always a selfish thing to do.
	8.	I should be willing to sacrifice my own needs for others.
	9.	I must be really inadequate if I can't fix this myself.
1	0.	Obviously, the problem is just in my head. If I would just think differently I wouldn't have to bother everybody else.
1	1.	If I don't have what I want or need, it doesn't make any difference; I don't care really.
1	2.	Skillfulness is a sign of weakness.

Overview: Obtaining Objectives Skillfully

CLARIFYING PRIORITIES

How important is:

Getting what you want/obtaining your goal?

Keeping the relationship?

Maintaining your self-respect?

OBJECTIVES EFFECTIVENESS: DEAR MAN

Be effective in asserting your rights and wishes.

RELATIONSHIP EFFECTIVENESS: GIVE

Act in such a way that you maintain positive relationships and that others feel good about themselves and about you.

SELF-RESPECT EFFECTIVENESS: FAST

Act in such a way that you keep your self-respect.

FACTORS TO CONSIDER

Decide how firm or intense you want to be in asking for something or saying no.

(Interpersonal Effectiveness Worksheet 3)

Clarifying Goals in Interpersonal Situations

OBJECTIVES EFFECTIVENESS: Getting What You Want from Another Person

- Obtaining your legitimate rights.
- Getting another person to do something you want that person to do.
- Saying no to an unwanted or unreasonable request.
- · Resolving an interpersonal conflict.
- Getting your opinion or point of view taken seriously.

Questions

- 1. What specific results or changes do I want from this interaction?
- 2. What do I have to do to get the results? What will work?

RELATIONSHIP EFFECTIVENESS: Keeping and Improving the Relationship

- Acting in such a way that the other person keeps liking and respecting you.
- Balancing immediate goals with the good of the long-term relationship.
- Maintaining relationships that matter to you.

Questions

- 1. How do I want the other person to feel about me after the interaction is over (whether or not I get the results or changes I want)?
- 2. What do I have to do to get (or keep) this relationship?

SELF-RESPECT EFFECTIVENESS: Keeping or Improving Self-Respect

- · Respecting your own values and beliefs.
- Acting in a way that makes you feel moral.
- Acting in a way that makes you feel capable and effective.

Questions

- 1. How do I want to feel about myself after the interaction is over (whether or not I get the results or changes I want)?
- 2. What do I have to do to feel that way about myself? What will work?

Guidelines for Objectives Effectiveness: Getting What You Want (DEAR MAN)

A way to remember these skills is to remember the term DEAR MAN:

Describe

Express

Assert

Reinforce

(Stay) Mindful

Appear Confident

Negotiate

escribe

 $\underline{\textbf{D}} escribe$ the current SITUATION (if necessary). Stick to the facts.

Tell the person exactly what you are reacting to.

"You told me you would be home by dinner but you didn't get here until 11."

Express

Express your FEELINGS and OPINIONS about the situation.

Don't assume that the other person knows how you feel.

"When you come home so late, I start worrying about you."

Use phrases such as "I want" instead of "You should," "I don't want" instead of "You shouldn't."

A

Assert yourself by ASKING for what you want or SAYING NO clearly.

Do not assume that others will figure out what you want.

Remember that others cannot read your mind.

"I would really like it if you would call me when you are going to be late."

Keinforce

Reinforce (reward) the person ahead of time (so to speak) by explaining positive effects of getting what you want or need.

If necessary, also clarify the negative consequences of not getting what you want or need.

"I would be so relieved, and a lot easier to live with, if you do that."

Remember also to reward desired behavior after the fact.

INTERPERSONAL EFFECTIVENESS HANDOUT 5 (p. 2 of 2)

(Stay)
indful	Keep your focus ON YOUR GOALS. Maintain your position. Don't be distracted. Don't get off the topic.
"Broken record":	Keep asking, saying no, or expressing your opinion over and over and over. Just keep replaying the same thing again and again.
Ignore attacks:	If another person attacks, threatens, or tries to change the subject, ignore the threats, comments, or attempts to divert you. Do not respond to attacks. Ignore distractions. Just keep making your point.
Λ	"I would still like a call."
Appear confident	Appear EFFECTIVE and competent.
	Use a confident voice tone and physical manner; make good eye contact.
	No stammering, whispering, staring at the floor, retreating.
N	No saying, "I'm not sure," etc.
egotiate	Be willing to GIVE TO GET. Offer and ask for other solutions to the problem. Reduce your request. Say no, but offer to do something else or to solve the problem another way. Focus on what will work.
	"How about if you text me when you think you might be late?"
Turn the tables:	Turn the problem over to the other person. Ask for other solutions.
	"What do you think we should do? I can't just stop worrying about you [or I'm not willing to]."
Other ideas:

Applying DEAR MAN Skills to a Difficult Current Interaction

To turn around really difficult situations, focus the skills on the other person's behavior right now.

When other people have really good skills themselves, and keep refusing your legitimate requests or pestering you to do something you don't want to do.

Apply DEAR MAN Skills

1. Describe the current interaction. If the "broken record" and ignoring don't work, make a statement about what is happening between you and the person now, but without imputing motives.

Example: "You keep asking me over and over, even though I have already said no several times," or "It is hard to keep asking you to empty the dishwasher when it is your month to do it."

Not: "You obviously don't want to hear what I am saying," "You obviously don't care about me," "Well, it's obvious that what I have to say doesn't matter to you," "Obviously you think I'm stupid."

2. Express feelings or opinions about the interaction. For instance, in the middle of an interaction that is not going well, you can express your feelings of discomfort in the situation.

Example: "I am sorry I cannot do what you want, but I'm finding it hard to keep discussing it," or "It's becoming very uncomfortable for me to keep talking about this, since I can't help it. I am starting to feel angry about it," or "I'm not sure you think this is important for you to do."

Not: "I hate you!", "Every time we talk about this, you get defensive," "Stop patronizing me!"

3. Assert wishes in the situation. When another person is pestering you, you can ask him or her to stop it. When a person is refusing a request, you can suggest that you put the conversation off until another time. Give the other person a chance to think about it.

Example: "Please don't ask me again. My answer won't change," or "OK, let's stop discussing this now and pick it up again sometime tomorrow," or "Let's cool down for a while and then get together to figure out a solution."

Not: "Would you shut up?" "You should do this!", "You should really calm down and do what's right here."

4. Reinforce. When you are saying no to someone who keeps asking, or when someone won't take your opinion seriously, suggest ending the conversation, since you aren't going to change your mind anyway. When trying to get someone to do something for you, you can suggest that you will come up with a better offer later.

Example: "Let's stop talking about this now. I'm not going to change my mind, and I think this is just going to get frustrating for both of us," or "OK, I can see you don't want to do this, so let's see if we can come up with something that will make you more willing to do it."

Not: "If you don't do this for me, I'll never do anything for you ever again," "If you keep asking me, I'll get a restraining order against you," "Gosh, you must be a terrible person for not doing this/for asking me to do this."

(Interpersonal Effectiveness Worksheets 4, 5)

Guidelines for Relationship Effectiveness: Keeping the Relationship (GIVE)

A way to remember these skills is to remember the word GIVE (DEAR MAN, GIVE):

(Be) Gentle (Act) Interested Validate

(Use an) Easy manner (Be) BE NICE and respectful.

kind. Express anger directly with words. No threats: If you have to describe painful consequences for not getting what you want, describe them calmly and without exaggerating.

No "manipulative" statements, no hidden threats. No "I'll kill myself if you . . . " Tolerate a "no." Stay in the discussion even if it gets painful. Exit gracefully.

No verbal or physical attacks. No hitting, clenching fists. No harassment of any

No moralizing. No "If you were a good person, you would . . . " No judging:

No "You should . . . " or "You shouldn't . . . " Abandon blame.

No sneering: No smirking, eye rolling, sucking teeth. No cutting off or walking away.

No saying, "That's stupid, don't be sad," "I don't care what you say."

LISTEN and APPEAR INTERESTED in the other person. (Act)

Listen to the other person's point of view.

Face the person; maintain eye contact; lean toward the person rather than away. Don't interrupt or talk over the person.

Be sensitive to the person's wish to have the discussion at a later time. Be patient.

asy manner

nterested

No attacks:

With WORDS AND ACTIONS, show that you understand the other person's feelings and thoughts about the situation. See the world from the other person's point of view, and then say or act on what you see.

"I realize this is hard for you, and . . . ", "I see that you are busy, and . . . "

Go to a private place when the person is uncomfortable talking in a public place.

(Use an) Use a little humor.

SMILE. Ease the person along. Be light-hearted. Sweet-talk. Use a "soft sell" over a "hard sell." Be "political."

Leave your attitude at the door.

Other ideas:

Expanding the V in GIVE: Levels of Validation

1. ☐ Pay Attention:	Look interested in the other person instead of bored (no multitasking).
2. □ Reflect Back:	Say back what you heard the other person say or do, to be sure you understand exactly what the person is saying. No judgmental language or tone of voice!
3. □ "Read Minds":	Be sensitive to what is not being said by the other person. Pay attention to facial expressions, body language, what is happening, and what you know about the person already. Show you understand in words or by your actions. Check it out and make sure you are right. Let go if you are not.
4. □ Understand:	Look for how what the other person is feeling, thinking, or doing makes sense, based on the person's past experiences present situation, and/or current state of mind or physical condition (i.e., the causes).
5. ☐ Acknowledge the Valid:	Look for how the person's feelings, thinking, or actions are valid responses because they fit current facts, or are understandable because they are a logical response to current facts.
6. □ Show Equality:	Be yourself! Don't "one-up" or "one-down" the other person. Treat the other as an equal, not as fragile or incompetent.

(Interpersonal Effectiveness Worksheets 4, 5)

Guidelines for Self-Respect Effectiveness: Keeping Respect for Yourself (FAST)

A way to remember these skills is to remember the word FAST (DEAR MAN, GIVE FAST).

(Be) Fair
(No) Apologies
Stick to Values
(Be) Truthful

(Be) air	Be fair to YOURSELF and to the OTHER person. Remember to VALIDATE YOUR OWN feelings and wishes, as well as the other person's.
(No) pologies	Don't overapologize. No apologizing for being alive or for making a request at all. No apologies for having an opinion, for disagreeing. No LOOKING ASHAMED, with eyes and head down or body slumped. No invalidating the valid.
S tick to values	Stick to YOUR OWN values. Don't sell out your values or integrity for reasons that aren't VERY important Be clear on what you believe is the moral or valued way of thinking and acting, and "stick to your guns."
(Be) ruthful	Don't lie. Don't act helpless when you are not. Don't exaggerate or make up excuses.

Evaluating Options for Whether or How Intensely to Ask for Something or Say No

Before asking for something or saying no to a request, you have to decide how intensely you want to hold your ground.

Options range from very low intensity, where you are very flexible and accept the situation as it is, to very high intensity, where you try every skill you know to change the situation and get what you want.

OPTIONS
Low intensity (let go, give in)
Asking Saying No
Don't ask; don't hint.	1	Do what the other person wants without being asked.
Hint indirectly; take no.	2	Don't complain; do it cheerfully.
Hint openly; take no.	3	Do it, even if you're not cheerful about it.
Ask tentatively; take no.	4	Do it, but show that you'd rather not.
Ask gracefully, but take no.	5	Say you'd rather not, but do it gracefully.
Ask confidently; take no.	6	Say no confidently, but reconsider.
Ask confidently; resist no.	7	Say no confidently; resist saying yes.
Ask firmly; resist no.	8	Say no firmly; resist saying yes.
Ask firmly; insist; negotiate; keep trying.	9	Say no firmly; resist; negotiate; keep trying.
Ask and don't take no for an answer.	10	Don't do it.
High intensity (stay firm)

FACTORS TO CONSIDER

When deciding how firm or intense you want to be in asking or saying no, think about:

- 1. The other person's or your own capability.
- 2. Your priorities.
- 3. The effect of your actions on your self-respect.
- 4. Your or the other's moral and legal rights in the situation.
- 5. Your authority over the person (or his or hers over you).
- 6. The type of relationship you have with the person.
- 7. The effect of your action on long- versus short-term goals.
- 8. The degree of give and take in your relationship.
- 9. Whether you have done your homework to prepare.
- 10. The timing of your request or refusal.
- 1. CAPABILITY:
- Is the person able to give you what you want? If YES, raise the intensity of ASKING.
- Do you have what the person wants? If NO, raise the intensity of NO.
- 2. PRIORITIES:
- Are your GOALS very important? Increase intensity.
- Is your RELATIONSHIP shaky? Consider reducing intensity.
- Is your SELF-RESPECT on the line? Intensity should fit your values.
- 3. SELF-RESPECT:
- Do you usually do things for yourself? Are you careful to avoid acting helpless when you are not? If YES, raise the intensity of ASKING.
- Will saying no make you feel bad about yourself, even when you are thinking about it wisely? If NO, raise the intensity of NO.
- 4. RIGHTS:
- Is the person required by law or moral code to give you what you want? If YES, raise the intensity of ASKING.
- Are you required to give the person what he or she is asking for? Would saying no violate the other person's rights? If NO, raise the intensity of NO.
- 5. AUTHORITY:
- Are you responsible for directing the person or telling the person what to do? If YES, raise the intensity of ASKING.
- Does the person have authority over you (e.g., your boss, your teacher)? And is what the person is asking within his or her authority? If NO, raise the intensity of NO.

INTERPERSONAL EFFECTIVENESS HANDOUT 8 (p. 3 of 3)

- 6. RELATIONSHIP:
- Is what you want appropriate to the current relationship? If YES, raise the intensity of ASKING.
- Is what the person is asking for appropriate to your current relationship? If NO, raise the intensity of NO.
- 7. LONG-TERM VERSUS SHORT-TERM GOALS:
- Will not asking for what you want keep the peace now but create problems in the long run? If YES, raise the intensity of ASKING.
- Is giving in to keep the peace right now more important than the long-term welfare of the relationship? Will you eventually regret or resent saying no? If NO, raise the intensity of NO.
- 8. GIVE AND TAKE:
 - What have you done for the person? Are you giving at least as much as you ask for? Are you willing to give if the person says yes? If YES, raise the intensity of ASKING.
 - Do you owe this person a favor? Does he or she do a lot for you? If NO, raise the intensity of NO.
- 9. HOMEWORK:
- Have you done your homework? Do you know all the facts you need to know to support your request? Are you clear about what you want? If YES, raise the intensity of ASKING.
- Is the other person's request clear? Do you know what you are agreeing to? If NO, raise the intensity of NO.
- 10. TIMING:
- Is this a good time to ask? Is the person "in the mood" for listening and paying attention to you? Are you catching the person when he or she is likely to say yes to your request? If YES, raise the intensity of ASKING.
- Is this a bad time to say no? Should you hold off answering for a while? If NO, raise the intensity of NO.

Troubleshooting: When What You Are Doing Isn't Working

Do I have the skills I need? Check out the instructions.

Review what has already been tried.

- Do I know how to be skillful in getting what I want?
- Do I know how to say what I want to say?
- Do I follow the skill instructions to the letter?

Do I know what I really want in this interaction?

Ask:

- Am I undecided about what I really want in this interaction?
- Am I unsure of my priorities?
- Am I having trouble balancing:
 - Asking for too much versus too little?
 - Saying no to everything versus saying yes to everything?
- Is fear or shame getting in the way of knowing what I really want?

Are short-term goals getting in the way of long-term goals?

Ask:

- Is "NOW, NOW, NOW" winning out over getting what I really want in the future?
- Is emotion mind controlling what I say and do instead of WISE MIND?

Are my emotions getting in the way of using my skills?

Ask:

- Do I get too upset to use my skills?
- Are my emotions so HIGH that I am over my skills breakdown point?

Are worries, assumptions, and myths getting in my way?

Ask:

- Are THOUGHTS about bad consequences blocking my action?
 "They won't like me," "She will think I am stupid."
- Are THOUGHTS about not deserving things getting in my way?
 "I am such a bad person I don't deserve this."
- Am I calling myself NAMES that stop me from doing anything?
 "I won't do it right," "I'll probably fall apart," "I'm so stupid."
- Do I believe MYTHS about interpersonal effectiveness?
 "If I make a request, this will show that I am a weak person,"
 "Only wimps have values."

h

Is the environment more powerful than my skills?

Ask:

- Are the people who have what I want or need more powerful than I am?
- Are other people more in control of the situation than I am?
- Will others be threatened if I get what I want?
- Do others have reasons for not liking me if I get what I want?

(Interpersonal Effectiveness Worksheet 8)

Finding and Getting People to Like You

REMEMBER: ALL HUMAN BEINGS ARE LOVABLE.

But finding friends may take effort on your part.

LOOK FOR PEOPLE WHO ARE CLOSE BY YOU.

Familiarity often leads to liking and sometimes love.

To find people you might like and who might like you, it is important to make sure that you are frequently around and visible to a group of people. Many people find friends who are classmates or members of groups they join, or who work at or go to the same places.

LOOK FOR PEOPLE WHO ARE SIMILAR TO YOU.

We often make friends with people who share our interests and attitudes.

Though always agreeing with someone will not make you more attractive to them, a lot of people are attracted to those who share the same important interests and attitudes, such as politics, lifestyle, morals.

WORK ON YOUR CONVERSATION SKILLS.

Ask and respond to questions; respond with a little more info than requested.

Make small talk; don't underestimate the value of chit-chat.

Self-disclose skillfully; keep your self-disclosure close to that of the other person.

Don't interrupt; don't start talking just fractionally before or after someone else.

Learn things to talk about: Watch others; read; increase your activities and experiences.

EXPRESS LIKING (SELECTIVELY).

We often like the people we think like us.

Express genuine liking for the other person. But don't try to suck up to the other person or grovel. Find things to compliment that are not super-obvious. Don't praise too much too often, and never use compliments to obtain favors.

INTERPERSONAL EFFECTIVENESS HANDOUT 11 (p. 2 of 2)

JOIN AN ONGOING GROUP CONVERSATION.

If we wait for people to approach us, we may never have friends.

Sometimes we must make the first move in finding friends. This often requires us to know how to tell if a group is open or closed, and then, when it is open, how to approach and join in the ongoing group.

In open groups new members are welcome.

In closed groups new members may not be welcome.

Open Groups

- Everyone is standing somewhat apart.
- Members occasionally glance around the room.
- There are gaps in the conversation.
- Members are talking about a topic of general interest.

Closed Groups

- Everyone is standing close together.
- Members attend exclusively to each other.
- There is a very animated conversation with few gaps.
- Members seem to be pairing off.

Ways of Joining an Open Group	Potential Outcomes
Move gradually closer to the group.	It may not be clear from the slowness of your approach that you want to join them; it might even look as though you were creeping up and trying to eavesdrop!
Offer to refill members' glasses/ serve them food.	That could be overdoing things a bit. What would you do if they refused more food/drinks? Would it be clear enough that you wanted to join the group?
Stand beside them and chip in on their conversation.	That might seem rude. They haven't invited you to join them, and anyway, what exactly are you going to say when you chip in?
Go up and introduce yourself.	Isn't that overly formal? Having introduced yourself, then what do you say? Will they introduce themselves to you? Wouldn't you interrupt the conversation?
Wait for a break in the conversation, stand beside a friendly-looking member of the group and say something like "Mind if I join you?"	This makes your intention clear and doesn't seem rude or interrupt the conversation; group members can then choose whether to introduce themselves or not.

Identifying Skills to Find People and Get Them to Like You

For each A and B pair, check the more effective responses.

	Realize that good relationships depend on what you do. Think of relationships in vague, abstract terms.			Stay out of conversations other people are having, so people know you're respectful. Politely ask to join in conversations, so you can meet more people.
 	Expect people to beat a path to your door. Create and make full use of opportunities to come into regular contact with others.		 	Say nothing or everything about yourself, regardless of what others reveal. Disclose roughly the same amount of personal information to others as they disclose to you.
	Mix with people who share your attitudes and interests. Mix with people with whom you have little in common.	{		Keep good opinions of others to yourself. If you like others, let them know.
	Mix with people who respond positively to you and to life generally. Mix with cynics and pessimists.			Protect yourself, and comment only on good points that are obvious to anyone and everyone. Don't express liking indiscriminately.
	Express your opinions and attitudes, so that others can recognize similarities with you. Keep your opinions and attitudes to yourself.			Rely on flattery to get what you want when you think it will work. Don't use flattery to influence others.
	Answer questions briefly, and seldom ask or return them. Show interest in others by asking questions.			Stand near a friendly-looking person in a new group, wait for a lull in the conversation, and then ask if it's OK for you to join the group. Stand near a group of new people and make sure your comments or opinions are heard.

Mindfulness of Others

FRIENDSHIPS LAST LONGER WHEN WE ARE MINDFUL.

OBSERVE
 Pay attention with interest and curiosity to others around you. Stop multitasking; focus on the people you are with. Stay in the present rather than planning what to say next. Let go of a focus on self, and focus on others around you. Be open to new information about others. Notice judgmental thoughts about others, and let them go. Give up clinging to always being right.
DESCRIBE
 Replace judgmental words with descriptive words. Avoid assuming or interpreting what other people think about you without checking the facts. (Remember, no one has ever observed another person's thoughts, motives, intentions, feelings, emotions, desires, or experiences.) Avoid questioning other people's motives (unless you have very good reasons to do so). Give others the benefit of the doubt.
PARTICIPATE
 □ Throw yourself into interactions with others. □ Go with the flow, rather than trying to control the flow. □ Become one with group activities and conversations.

Identifying Mindfulness of Others

For each A and B pair, check the more effective response.

			Multi-task and expect the other person to understand. Give your complete attention to the person you are with.			Be open to people's changing their minds about things, as well as their beliefs or feelings. Assume that when people change, they are not trustworthy.
		2A.	Figure that if you already know someone, you don't really have to pay such close attention to them any more.		7A.	Evaluate other people's behaviors and thoughts, and tell them that they are wrong or that they should be different when you feel sure you are right.
		2B.	Recognize that closeness is built by attending to and learning more and more about people you care about.		7B.	If you do not approve of or agree with what another person is doing or thinking, try to understand how it would make sense if you knew the causes.
		3A.	"My feelings are really hurt by what you did, and the thought			"You should stop doing that." "I wish you would stop doing that."
			went through my mind that you hate me. I know that you don't really, but did you feel that way at the time?" "I know you hate me. There is no other reason for what you did to me. Don't tell me differently, either."		9A.	"You are lazy and have given up." "I worry that you have given up."
		3B.		,		"I don't think that is correct." "How could you possibly think that?"
		4A.	In social situations, throw yourself into interactions.		11A.	Stay in control so that relationships turn out the way you want.
		4B.	Stay reserved and watch social interactions so you don't make mistakes.		11B.	Go with the flow much of the time when in social interactions with groups of friends.
			Find people with your values.		12A.	Hold back in a conversation until you

Ending Relationships

A destructive relationship has the quality of destroying or completely spoiling either the quality of the relationship or aspects of yourself—such as your physical body and safety, your self-esteem or sense of integrity, your happiness or peace of mind, or your caring for the other person.

An interfering relationship is one that blocks or makes difficult your pursuing goals that are important to you; your ability to enjoy life and do things you like doing; your relationships with other persons; or the welfare of others that you love.

Decide to end relationships in WISE MIND, NEVER in emotion mind.

If the relationship is IMPORTANT and NOT destructive, and there is reason to hope it can be improved, try PROBLEM SOLVING to repair a difficult relationship.

COPE AHEAD to troubleshoot and practice ending the relationship ahead of time.

Be direct: Use the DEAR MAN GIVE FAST interpersonal effectiveness skills.

Practice OPPOSITE ACTION FOR LOVE when you find you love the wrong person.

PRACTICE SAFETY FIRST!

Before leaving a highly abusive or life-threatening relationship, call a local domestic violence hotline or the toll-free National Domestic Violence Hotline (1-800-799-7233) for help with safety planning and a referral to a qualified professional. See also the International Directory of Domestic Violence Agencies (www.hotpeachpages.net).

Identifying How to End Relationships

For each A and B pair, check the more effective response.

 □ 1A. If a relationship is threatening your integrity or physical wellbeing, it is probably your fault, and you should see a therapist. □ 1B. A relationship threatening your integrity or physical well-being is destructive, and you should consider getting out of it. 	In the middle of an argument, you are so mad at the other person you don't want to have anything to do with this person any more. 3A. You should end the relationship right then! You may forget all about how enraging the person is if you wait. 3B. You should get out of emotion mind and into Wise Mind, and evaluate whether to stay or leave the relationship.
 □ 2A. Relationships should be easy. If it's hard to have a relationship with someone, it's probably not worth it, and you should end it. □ 2B. Most relationships need problem solving to work. 	☐ 6A. If ending a destructive relationship will be difficult, it's most effective to stay together. ☐ 6B. If ending a destructive relationship will be difficult, it's most effective to cope ahead of time.
 □ 3A. If you are in love with someone who does not love you back, practice DEAR MAN skills to get the person to love you. □ 3B. If you are in love with someone who does not love you back, practice opposite action to love. 	 □ 7A. In an abusive relationship, if the person hits you, you should use your interpersonal skills to tell the person you are leaving the relationship. □ 7B. In an abusive relationship, you should seek professional assistance to leave the relationship.
 □ 4A. To decide whether to end a relationship, do PROS and CONS. □ 4B. To decide whether to end a relationship, use GIVE skills. 	 ■ 8A. If you feel consistently invalidated in a relationship, it is probably your fault. ■ 8B. If you are consistently invalidated, the relationship is likely destructive.

Balancing Acceptance and Change

DIALECTICS

Balancing opposites while entering the paradox of "yes" and "no," "true" and "not true," at the very same time.

VALIDATION

Including the valid and understanable in ourselves and others.

RECOVERING FROM INVALIDATION

From a nondefensive position, find the valid, acknowledge the invalid, and radically accept yourself.

STRATEGIES FOR CHANGING BEHAVIOR

Use behavioral principles to increase desired behaviors and decrease undesired behaviors.

(Interpersonal Effectiveness Worksheets 11, 11a, 11b)

Dialectics

DIALECTICS REMINDS US THAT

1. The universe is filled with opposing sides/opposing forces.

There is always more than one way to see a situation, and more than one way to solve a problem.

Two things that seem like opposites can both be true.

2. Everything and every person is connected in some way.

The waves and the ocean are one.

The slightest move of the butterfly affects the furthest star.

3. Change is the only constant.

Meaning and truth evolve over time.

Each moment is new; reality itself changes with each moment.

4. Change is transactional.

What we do influences our environment and other people in it.

The environment and other people influence us.

(Interpersonal Effectiveness Worksheets 11, 11a, 11b)

How to Think and Act Dialectically

□ 1.	Th	ere is always more than one side to anything that exists. Look for both sides.
		Ask Wise Mind: What am I missing? Where is the kernel of truth in the other side?
		Let go of extremes: Change "either-or" to "both-and," "always" or "never" to "sometimes."
		Balance opposites: Validate both sides when you disagree, accept reality, and work to change.
		Make lemonade out of lemons.
		Embrace confusion: Enter the paradox of yes and no, or true and not true.
		Play devil's advocate: Argue each side of your own position with equal passion.
		Use metaphors and storytelling to unstick and free the mind.
		Other ways to see all sides of a situation:
□ 2.	Ве	aware that you are connected.
		Treat others as you want them to treat you.
		Look for similarities among people instead of differences.
		Notice the physical connections among all things.
		Other ways to stay aware of connections:
□ 3.	En	nbrace change.
		Throw yourself into change: Allow it. Embrace it.
		Practice radical acceptance of change when rules, circumstances, people, and relationships change in ways you don't like.
		Practice getting used to change: Make small changes to practice this (e.g., purposely change where you sit, who you talk with, what route you take when going to a familiar place).
		Other ways to embrace change:
4 .		ange is transactional: Remember that you affect your environment and your vironment affects you.
		Pay attention to your effect on others and how they affect you.
		Practice letting go of blame by looking for how your own and others' behaviors are _	caused by many interactions over time.
		Remind yourself that all things, including all behaviors, are caused.
		Other ways to see transactions:

Examples of Opposite Sides That Can Both Be True

1.	. You can want to change and be doing the best you can, AND still need to do better, try harder, and be more motivated to change.
2.	. You are tough AND you are gentle.
3.	 You can be independent AND also want help. (You can allow somebody else to be independent AND also give them help.)
4.	You can want to be alone AND also want to be connected to others.
5.	You can share some things with others AND also keep some things private.
6.	You can be by yourself AND still be connected to others.
7.	You can be with others AND be lonely.
8.	You can be a misfit in one group AND fit in perfectly in another group. (A tulip in a rose garden can also be a tulip in a tulip garden.)
9.	You can accept yourself the way you are AND still want to change. (You can accept others as they are AND still want them to change.)
10.	At times you need to both control AND tolerate your emotions.
11.	You may have a valid reason for believing what you believe, AND you may still be wrong or incorrect.
12.	Someone may have valid reasons for wanting something from you, AND you may have valid reasons for saying no.
13.	The day can be sunny, AND it can rain.
14.	You can be mad at somebody AND also love and respect the person.
15.	(You can be mad at yourself AND also love and respect yourself.)
16.	You can have a disagreement with somebody AND also be friends.
17.	You can disagree with the rules AND also follow the rules.
18.	You can understand why somebody is feeling or behaving in a certain way, AND also disagree with his or her behavior and ask that it be changed.

Important Opposites to Balance

Accepting reality AND working to change it.
2. Validating yourself and others AND acknowledging errors.
3.	Working AND resting.
4.	Doing things you need to do AND doing things you want to do.
5.	Working on improving yourself AND accepting yourself exactly as you are.
6. Problem solving AND problem acceptance.
7.	Emotion regulation AND emotion acceptance.
8.	Mastering something on your own AND asking for help.
9.	Independence AND dependence.
10.	Openness AND privacy.
11.	Trust AND suspicion.

Identifying Dialectics

For each group, check the most dialectical response.

☐ 1A. Pay attention to your effect on others. ☐ 1B. Assume that others' reactions to you are unrelated to your treatment of them.	□ 5A. Examine a difficult relationship by looking at how the interactions over time between you and the other person may be problematic. □ 5B. Assume that difficulties in a relationship are caused completely by you or by the other person.
Saying: 2A. "I know I am right about this." 2B. "I can see your point of view, even though I do not agree with it." 2C. "The way you are thinking doesn't make any sense."	Saying: GA. "It is hopeless. I cannot do it." GB. "This is a breeze. I've got no problems." GC. "This is really hard for me, and I am going to keep trying."
Saying: 3A. "Everyone always treats me unfairly." 3B. "I believe the coach should reconsider his decision to cut me from the team." 3C. "Coaches know best who to keep on teams and who to cut."	 ☐ 7A. When you disagree with someone, be sure and be very clear about your point of view. ☐ 7B. When you disagree with someone, try and see their point of view.
 □ 4A. Judge friends as disloyal and uncaring if they start changing in ways you don't like. □ 4B. Accept that interests change. 	 ■ 8A. Demand that relationships be stable without changing. ■ 8B. Embrace change and see it as inevitable.

(Interpersonal Effectiveness Worksheet 12)

Validation

VALIDATION MEANS:

- Finding the kernel of truth in another person's perspective or situation; verifying the facts of a situation.
- Acknowledging that a person's emotions, thoughts, and behaviors have causes and are therefore understandable.
- Not necessarily agreeing with the other person.
- Not validating what is actually invalid.

WHY VALIDATE?

- It improves our relationships by showing we are listening and understand.
- It improves interpersonal effectiveness by reducing:
 - 1. Pressure to prove who is right
 - 2. Negative reactivity
 - 3. Anger
- It makes problem solving, closeness, and support possible.
- Invalidation hurts.

IMPORTANT THINGS TO VALIDATE

- The valid (and only the valid).
- The facts of a situation.
- A person's experiences, feelings/emotions, beliefs, opinions, or thoughts about something.
- Suffering and difficulties.

REMEMBER:

- Every invalid response makes sense in some way.
- Validation is not necessarily agreeing.
- Validation doesn't mean you like it.
- Only validate the valid!

Note. Adapted from Linehan, M. M. (1997). Validation and psychotherapy. In A. Bohart & L. Greenberg (Eds.), Empathy reconsidered: New directions in psychotherapy (pp. 353–392). (Interpersonal Effectiveness Worksheet 12)

A "How To" Guide to Validation

1. Pay Attention:

Look interested, listen, and observe. No multitasking. Make eye contact. Stay focused. Nod occasionally. Respond with your face (e.g., smile at happy statements; look concerned when hearing something painful).

2. Reflect Back:

Say back what you heard or observed to be sure you actually understand what the person is saying. No judgmental language or voice tone!

Try to really "get" what the person feels or thinks. Have an open mind. (No disagreeing, criticizing, or trying to change the person's mind or goals.) Use a voice tone that allows the other person to correct you . . . and check the facts!

Example: "So you are mad at me because you think I lied just to get back at you. Did I get it right?"

3. ☐ "Read Minds":

Be sensitive to what is not being said by the other person. Pay attention to facial expressions, body language, what is happening, and what you know about the person already. Show that you understand in words or by your actions. Be open to correction.

Example: When you are asking a friend for a ride at the end of a long day and the person slumps down, say, "You look really tired. Let me look for someone else."

4. Understand:

Look for how the other person feels, is thinking, or if he or she is making sense, given the person's history, state of mind or body, or current events (i.e. the causes)—even if you don't approve of the person's behavior, or if his or her belief is incorrect. Say "It makes sense that you . . . because . . . "

Example: If you sent a party invitation to the wrong address, say, "I can see why you thought I might be excluding you on purpose."

5. Acknowledge the valid:

Show that you see that the person's thoughts, feelings, or actions are valid, given current reality and facts. Act as if the person's behavior is valid.

Example: If you are criticized for not taking out the garbage on your day, admit that it is your day and take it out. If people present a problem, help them solve it (unless they just want to be heard). If people are hungry, give them food. Acknowledge the effort a person is making.

6. □ Show Equality:

Be yourself! Don't "one-up" or "one-down" the other person. Treat the other as an equal, not as fragile or incompetent.

Example: Be willing to admit mistakes. If someone introduces him- or herself by first name, introduce yourself by your first name. Ask other people for their opinions. Give up being defensive. Be careful in giving advice or telling someone what to do if you are not asked or required to do so. Even then, remember you could be wrong.

Note. Adapted from Linehan, M. M. (1997). Validation and psychotherapy. In A. Bohart & L. Greenberg (Eds.), Empathy reconsidered: New directions in psychotherapy (pp. 353–392). Identifying Validation

For each A and B pair, check the more effective response.

 □ 1A. Think about your day when the other person is talking about his or her day. □ 1B. Throw yourself into listening about the other person's day. 	 □ 5A. Remember that people's thoughts, feelings, and behaviors don't always match. Check the facts. □ 5B. Assume that you can tell exactly what people are feeling and thinking.
 □ 2A. If you are uncertain of people's thoughts and feelings, ask them what they are thinking or feeling, or try to imagine yourself in their situation. □ 2B. Assume that if people want you to know what they are thinking or feeling, they will tell you. 	 □ 6A. Evaluate other people's behaviors and thoughts, and tell them that they are wrong or that they should be different when you feel sure you are right. □ 6B. If you do not agree with what another person is doing or thinking, try to understand how it could make sense if you understood the causes.
 □ 3A. Observe the small clues that indicate what is going on in social situations. □ 3B. Observe only what people say, and ignore nonverbal signals. 	 ☐ 7A. Assume that if you tell a person his or her request of you makes sense, that's all you have to do to validate the person. ☐ 7B. When a person asks you for something, giving the person what has been asked for is validation.
 4A. Jump to conclusions about what people mean. 4B. Realize that the same behavior can mean many things. 	 ■ 8A. Assume that other people's reactions to you have nothing to do with yours to them. ■ 8B. Treat each person with respect and as an equal.

(Interpersonal Effectiveness Worksheet 13)

Recovering from Invalidation

NOTICE THAT INVALIDATION CAN BE HELPFUL AND PAINFUL AT THE SAME TIME

Remember: Invalidation Is Helpful When

- 1. It corrects important mistakes (your facts are wrong).
- 2. It stimulates intellectual and personal growth by listening to other views.

3. Other
----------	--

Invalidation Is Painful When

- 1. You are being ignored.
- 2. You are not being repeatedly misunderstood.
- 3. You are being misread.
- 4. You are being misinterpreted.
- 5. Important facts in your life are ignored or denied.
- 6. You are receiving unequal treatment.
- 7. You are being disbelieved when being truthful.
- 8. Your private experiences are trivialized or denied.

9.	Other:

Be Nondefensive and Check the Facts
☐ Check ALL the facts to see if your responses are valid or invalid. Check them out with someone you can trust to validate the valid.
Acknowledge when your responses don't make sense and are not valid.
□ Work to change invalid thinking, comments, or actions. (Also, stop blaming. It rarely helps a situation.)
☐ Drop judgmental self-statements. (Practice opposite action.)
Remind yourself that all behavior is caused and that you are doing your best.
☐ Be compassionate toward yourself. Practice self-soothing.
☐ Admit that it hurts to be invalidated by others, even if they are right.
Acknowledge when your reactions make sense and are valid in a situation.
☐ Remember that being invalidated, even when your response is actually valid, is rarely a complete catastrophe.
☐ Describe your experiences and actions in a supportive environment.
☐ Grieve traumatic invalidation and the harm it created.
☐ Practice radical acceptance of the invalidating person.

Validate Yourself Exactly the Way You Would Validate Someone Else

Identifying Self-Validation

For each A and B pair, check the more effective response when someone else invalidates you.

 □ 1A. Describe your own experience, point of view, emotion, or action in a matter-of-fact way. □ 1B. Say, "How stupid of me," or put yourself down for your response. 	 □ 4A. Jump to anger and call yourself a wimp if you start feeling sad or alone. □ 4B. Accept that it hurts to be invalidated, and feel the pain.
 □ 2A. Blast the other person and argue your point of view, even if you might be wrong. □ 2B. When someone disagrees with what you think or do, be open to being wrong and being OK with that. Check the facts. 	 □ 5A. When you make a mistake, remind yourself that you are human, and humans make mistakes. □ 5B. Blame and punish yourself for being wrong; avoid people who know you were wrong.
 □ 3A. When you are checking the facts (if only in your mind), stand up for yourself if you are correct or if your response is reasonable. □ 3B. Assume that your experience of the facts is wrong. Give up and give in. Judge yourself and the person who invalidated you. 	□ 6A. See yourself as "screwed up" or "damaged goods," and give in to shame and misery. □ 6B. Respond and talk to yourself with understanding and compassion. Remind yourself that all responses are caused and make sense if you explore the reasons long enough.

Strategies for Increasing the Probability of Behaviors You Want

Describe behaviors for yourself or others that you would like to start or increase:

Reinforcer = A consequence that increases frequency of a behavior.
Positive reinforcement = positive consequences (i.e., reward).
Behavior is increased by consequences a person wants, likes, or will work to get.
Examples:
Negative reinforcement = removal of negative events (i.e., relief).
Behavior is increased by consequences that stop or reduce something negative.
Examples:
Shaping = Reinforcing small steps toward the behavior you want.
 Reinforce small steps that lead toward the goal. As new behavior stabilizes, require a little bit more before reinforcing. Continue until you reach the goal behavior.
Examples of steps to a goal behavior:

Timing counts.

- Reinforce behavior immediately after it occurs.
- When shaping new behavior, at first reinforce every instance of the behavior.
- Once behavior is established, gradually start to reinforce only some of the time.

CAUTION: When you vary reinforcement, behavior becomes very hard to stop.

(Interpersonal Effectiveness Worksheet 15)

Strategies for Decreasing or Stopping Unwanted Behaviors

Extinction = Stopping an ongoing reinforcement of behavior.
Extinction leads first to a burst of behavior, and then to a decrease in behavior.
Examples:
Satiation = Providing relief or what is wanted before the behavior occurs. Satiation reduces motivation for behavior and thus decreases its frequency.

Punishment = An aversive consequence that decreases a behavior.
Behavior is decreased by consequences the person dislikes or will work to avoid.
Examples:
Behavior is decreased by consequences that stop or reduce something positive.
Examples:
Behavior is decreased when something the person wants is withheld until harmful effects of problem behaviors are corrected and overcorrected.
Examples:

- Be sure that punishment is specific, is time-limited, and fits the "crime."
- Avoid a punitive tone; let the consequence do the work.
- If a natural punishment occurs, don't undo it. Don't add arbitrary punishment.

Be sure to reinforce alternative behavior to replace behavior you want stopped.

- Extinction and punishment weaken or suppress behavior, but do not eliminate it.
- Extinction and punishment do not teach new behavior.
- To keep a behavior from resurfacing, reinforce an alternative behavior.
- Punishment works only when the punisher is (or is likely to be) present.
- Punishment leads to avoidance of the person punishing.

Tips for Using Behavior Change Strategies Effectively

Summary so far:
Goal		Consequence
Increase behavior	(Reinforce)	Add positive consequenceRemove aversive consequence
Weaken behavior	(Extinguish)	Remove reinforcerProvide relief before unwanted behavior
Suppress behavior	(Punish)	Add aversive consequenceRemove positive consequence

Not all consequences are created equal.

"One person's poison can be another person's passion."

Context counts. A reinforcer in one situation can be punishment in another.

Quantity counts. If a reinforcer is too little or too much, it will not work.

Natural consequences work best. Let them do the work when possible.

Ask what consequence the person would work to get (reinforcer) or work to avoid (punisher).

Observe changes in behavior when a consequence is applied.

Behavior learned in one situation may not happen in another situation.

Identifying Effective Behavior Change Strategies

For each A and B pair, check the more effective response.

 □ 1A. When you are trying to increase a behavior, it is most effective to wait for the full desired behavior before reinforcing, so the person does not think that halfway is good enough. □ 1B. When you are trying to increase a behavior, it is most effective to reinforce small improvement in the right direction, or else the person may not continue to improve. 	 □ 5A. If a person's problem behaviors work to get things he or she wants, it is most effective to punish those behaviors to make them stop. □ 5B. If a person's problem behaviors work to get things he or she wants, it is most effective to stop reinforcing those behaviors and instead give rewards when the person uses more skillful strategies to get what he or she wants or needs.
 □ 2A. The most effective punishment is intense anger and swift verbal criticism. □ 2B. The most effective punishment is to find one that fits the severity of the problem behavior. 	 □ 6A. When you are punishing, figure that a nonspecific punishment will be a lot more effective, since it can't be avoided. □ 6B. Use a specific and time-limited negative consequence to decrease behavior.
 □ 3A. It is most effective to reinforce behavior immediately after it occurs. □ 3B. It is most effective to reward behavior after a delay so that the person does not expect that you will always provide a reward. 	 □ 7A. If a person's mean behavior makes you feel hurt, it is most effective to punish the behavior by taking away gifts that you previously gave the person. □ 7B. If a person's mean behavior makes you feel hurt, it is most effective to punish the behavior by not doing favors for the person until his or her behavior improves.
 □ 4A. It is common that people reward others' problematic behaviors without even realizing it. □ 4B. People do not reward others' problematic behaviors, because that would be stupid. 	 ■ 8A. After a punished behavior stops, it is most effective to reward an alternative behavior that you want. ■ 8B. After a punished behavior stops, it is most effective to continue the punishment, so that you send a very clear message that the problematic behavior is unacceptable.
